

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction	xv
---------------------	----

CHAPTER 1

Constitutional foundations of vulnerability

1. Setting vulnerability in the context of protection of fundamental rights. Preliminary suggestions	1
2. Constitutional protection of the weakest and guarantee of social rights with the aim of substantive equality	8
3. The category of ‘weak subjects’ before the Welfare State crisis and the limits of charitable public intervention	16
4. Primacy of the person and human dignity: the demands of vulnerability through the prism of value judgements	22
5. The relevance of vulnerability in European and International law	28
6. Supranational systems of rights protection and Domestic law	34
6.1. The constitutional framing of the European Convention on Human Rights and the question of an interpretation consistent with it	44

CHAPTER 2

The rights of vulnerable people in the jurisprudence of supranational Courts

1. The European Court of Human Rights and the use of an open-endedness concept of vulnerability	51
2. Various aspects of vulnerability: the subjective level through the individual categories of vulnerability (persons and situations)	55
2.1. The ‘vulnerable group’ concept	63
3. The causal level and the different factors of vulnerability	74
4. The level of the effects resulting from finding vulnerability	80
4.1. Procedural safeguards and the reversal of the burden of proof	80
4.2. Establishing positive obligations: the procedural actions	86
4.2.1. The substantive measures	91
4.3. The reduction in the State’s margin of appreciation	99

5. Court of Justice of the European Union and rights of vulnerable people	102
5.1. The area of judicial cooperation in criminal matters	104
5.2. The importance of vulnerability in the field of repatriation and asylum	107
5.3. Vulnerability and needs of protection in the area of social policy and in the case of consumers of tobacco products	114

CHAPTER 3

The burden of vulnerability in the jurisprudence of the Constitutional Court

1. The access of the concept of vulnerability into Domestic law and the Constitutional Court's guidelines on the rights of vulnerable people	119
2. End-of-life matter among freedom of self-determination and vulnerability of the incurable patient	124
3. Escorts and practices concurrent to prostitution: the protection of vulnerable people in the light of legislator's discretion	131
4. The weight of the pregnant woman's vulnerability in balancing the interests of the child and the deterrence of surrogacy practice	136
5. Vulnerability and criminal trial: the cases of admission to legal aid and the early taking of testimony of a minor	140
6. Vulnerability and safeguards of prisoners' rights	145
7. Vulnerable individuals and prevention of pathological gambling in view of constitutional division of powers	153

CHAPTER 4

The rights of vulnerable people among Courts' creative action and Legislator's discretion. Reconsidering vulnerability in the light of the Republican Constitution

1. Rights of vulnerable people, powers of the Legislator and Courts' prerogatives	157
2. The issue of securing legal certainty and predictability: vulnerability under the doctrine of 'open interpretation of rights' and the multi-level system of protection	161
3. Vulnerability as a prerequisite for a renewed paternalism	170
4. The rights of vulnerable people before the grounds of Constitutional law: restoring certainty between the duty to state reasons and the enhancement of legislative intermediation	176
5. The value of vulnerability within the framework of the principle of secularism and pluralism	182

CONTENTS	XIII
6. The boundaries of vulnerability and the topicality of the Republican Constitution	187
Bibliography	189
Abstract	221